Dear Reverend Angela,

I hope you're doing well today on Good Friday.

I just wanted to tell you how much I really enjoy your website. There's something so special about it...it feels like the early days of the internet, when sites had real personality and heart. The layout, the design, the whole way it's put together has this lovely retro warmth that's both comforting and refreshing. It actually feels human and intentional, which is pretty rare these days.

The content is thoughtful and meaningful too. I've been wanting to reach out and say this for a while now, but I finally sat down to put it into words.

Thank you for creating something so genuine and grounded. It's truly appreciated.

Warmly,

Clelia Jane Sheppard
