I'm satisfied with your response. I really don't think you should send people your medical records even when evidence is requested. You have a right to privacy too. I respect your transparency and would like to receive the mission newsletter. Please add me to the newsletter and post my feedback. Thank you.

Dear Kayla,

Thank you for your feedback and inquiry! Once this exchange is complete, I will post it in entirety to <https://www.cope.church/feedback.htm> . To contact me without it being posted publicly, you can officially and expressly disclaim anything sent to me in a specific message is feedback when e-mailing angela@churchofphilosophicalexploration.org or e-mail me at rev@cope.church without including "Post My Feedback" as the subject for it to be considered private until a request to post has been made or offer to post accepted.

The church is conceptual and primarily virtual at this time in part due to COVID restrictions. You can join by participating like you have here in sending in feedback, participating in interactive online church services (see <https://www.cope.church/sermons.htm> for example), volunteering for the mission (though the mission accepts volunteers from other churches as long as of good faith), or to any extent you feel aligned with the church and/or mission in spirit, act, or deed. You do not have to donate money to join/participate, but, you may consider the time you spend learning about our message or activities a donation of time. I don't know that the IRS would find such a donation of time worthy of an in-kind tax deduction unless you actively help spread the word. Perhaps consult a tax attorney on that and if you find out let me know.

All I currently know of you is that you seem honest and direct. Honesty (including intellectual honesty) in spirit, act, and deed are the minimum requirements for being considered an Honorary Proselytizer even if you and I honestly disagree on any point or issue. I do ask you submit a photo because the Honorary Proselytizer list or wall is supposed to be a photo gallery of those so honored who accept the honor or wish to accept it publicly rather than privately or unofficially. You could be stripped of the honor if caught in a deception for vicious purposes. And, I'd be happy to bestow on you that honor if you provide a photo of yourself and honestly believe you deserve it because you honestly believe you meet the minimum standard.

Our participants, congregants, and volunteers are as public as they/we wish to be and I encourage transparency while leading be example to the best of my ability. Matthew 6:1-6 King James Version says:

So, as a matter of faith in Christian scripture and with consideration of the Wycliffite right to dissent and ecumenical principles of my church, I respect the right of everyone to practice religion openly or privately while welcoming everyone who is at least humble enough to be honest (including intellectually honest). I'm not comfortable answering for other volunteers, members, participants, and/or congregants. But, you can see some listed on the Fellowship wall at <https://www.cope.church/fellowship.htm> .

I appreciate your recognition of our commitment to stop fraud, human trafficking, and more as the main effort on human rights at this time. I honestly feel and think that the articles you linked to about PETA and Sierra Club explain the issue and it is with their dishonesty or misleading marketing/propaganda which I'm willing to be corrected on and even linked to what I see as PETA's public response to the concerns. I support Food Animal Concerns Trust both by sharing actions through the church/mission social media on Twitter at www.twitter.com/heal247 and making sure when we purchase church supplies through Amazon.com we do it through the Smile option so Food Animal Concerns Trust benefits. With greater resources in the future, we hope to establish at least foster or emergency sanctuary care for humans and/or nonhuman animals. But, our church and mission aren't there yet financially. It remains part of the commitment though and we often share campaigns by other organizations, news, and do our part to care for wildlife and domesticated nonhuman animals in our daily lives. Below is evidence I/the church support (I'm the sole proprietor of the church as a matter of law and the church as a matter of church bylaws at

As far as environmental sustainability, I bought the whole zero population growth hysteria when I was in college and had tubal ligation surgery which hasn't been reversed. So, I've committed to killing off my entire branch of the family tree with me to help save the environment. I feel that should suffice to show my commitment and again I lead by example even when at times misguided. And, again, the issue with Sierra Club is the history of white supremacy (I am of multi-cultural heritage) and deceptive marketing with an apparent ulterior motive or agenda which I feel the article helps expose. I also recycle and do my best to reduce consumption and re-use. But, a whole lot shows recycling harms the environment too. <https://www.cnn.com/2020/07/22/us/john-muir-sierra-club-racism-trnd/index.html>

So, part of my commitment is my willingness to be corrected if shown to be in error based on objective facts. The same goes for the church and mission as far as willingness to be corrected and/or post opposing views regarding matters of controversy.

(Recycling hurts environment source: <https://www.aier.org/article/for-most-things-recycling-harms-the-environment/> )

I've attached my medical records showing I had tubal ligation surgery and I hope you can take my word on why or see the sources cited on other issues. I'm not sure if my recycling helps or not. I act in good faith and hope when I do something intended to be helpful that it is helpful and not harmful.

Sometimes everyone can be misguided or misled or misinformed regarding what would be helpful or harmful. I do admit to imperfection/fallibility as does the church and mission.

Hi, Rev. Angela!

I was considering supporting your church and mission or looking to potentially join though I don't see how one joins listed anywhere on the church or mission sites. Do I have to donate to join? How does one become an "Honorary Proselytizer"? Are only listed volunteers considered members? Are mission volunteers also members of the church?

The mission itself claims to be for Human Earth Animal Liberation which is further defined as human rights, environmental sustainability, and animal welfare. I recognize your consumer and victim's advocacy as representative or evidence of your commitment to human rights. I understand you are exposing PETA and the vegan movement at <http://www.heal-online.org/thelist.htm#animal> and environmentalist causes like Sierra Club at <http://www.heal-online.org/thelist.htm#enviro>. What I don't understand is how opposing PETA and Sierra Club are aligned with supposed advocacy efforts for animal welfare and environmental sustainability. In fact, I see the statements against PETA and Sierra Club as contradictory to two of your mission's claimed objectives. Setting that aside, I'll be satisfied if you can state exactly your mission's commitment to environmental sustainability and animal welfare with evidence showing you do in fact support both.

I look forward to hearing from you.

In Good Faith,

Kayla Richards
