Dear Sharon,

What do you mean by BBF?

The screenshot shows a Google search interface. The search bar contains 'bbf meaning'. Below the search bar, there are navigation options: All, News, Videos, Images, Books, and More. The search results show 'About 289,000 results (0.37 seconds)'. A table lists several definitions for BBF:

Acronym	Definition
BBF	Best Best Friend
BBF	Beer Buddies Forever
BBF	Better Boys Foundati
BBF	Bursty Bulk Flow

Below the table, there is a link for '63 more rows' and a search result snippet from 'acronyms.thefreedictionary.com' with the title 'BBF - What does BBF stand for? The Free Dictionary'.

Satan means enemy in general and you and I are not friends. I'm sorry if you find that disappointing. But, I appreciate that you recognize that's how you should sign every e-mail, with that emoji.

I asked if you wanted the exchange posted as feedback and said you were welcome to add to it. You replied repeatedly which I took as implied consent. Do you want me to remove the exchange? I'd prefer not to remove it. But, if you feel punished by it, I'll remove it if your son asks me to and only under those circumstances. Fair enough?

Best Wishes,

Rev. Angela Smith

Dear Sharon,

I'm taking your two replies as implied consent to post this exchange on the Feedback page. All of it including this message will be posted sans the next one which will provide you the direct link so you can share it with your "friends" and let the know how offensively you've been treated after admitting to having your son tortured at a program for 15 months that you claim were the best of your life though it ruined his life.

Also, I can prove right now that you are a liar who lies in a way that takes up my time and in the for profit world, time is money. But, COPE is a church and nonprofit. So, I didn't lose money, just time. But, arguably money, philosophically speaking based on the axiom popularized or coined by Benjamin Franklin that "time is money". I didn't charge you anything. The definition of fraud is this: "wrongful or criminal deception intended to result in financial or personal gain." I didn't deceive anyone and I'm not in it for personal gain (see <https://www.cope.church/mission.htm>) because I live a life of service because I'm a good Christian and not a hypocritical whore who cherishes the time she sent her son to be tortured at an unlicensed, unaccredited program where even the director has openly admitted they are not qualified. David admitted it. So, you are delusional and in denial and projecting your hate. That's cool. I'm good at reflection.

I still think you are talking about yourself and will continue to pray for your son. Liars self-negate. Your statement: "My son said he was abused and is too traumatized to discuss it. There was waterboarding of the boys and that was reported to police and investigated. One boy's arm was broken during restraint. And, the school credits are worthless. I'm such a great mother. You are nuts for believing otherwise. Where would you get the idea that I'm a narcissistic whore? Just because I'd rather have a 15 month vacation than raise my son and let strangers do it who exploit and abuse him. How is that different than living with me? See? That's your issue. He was better off being tortured at Teen Challenge than living with me. Instead of his life being ruined, he might be dead if I'd had him for those 15 months? Ever considered that? Are you pro-life or not?"

Yes, I'm pro-life. But, I don't think whores should reproduce. Go figure. Be patient for the link to this exchange. I won't reply again. You've been removed from the e-mail list too. Please forward this to your son.

Best Wishes,

Rev. Angela Smith

You are crackers.

You're someone that people learn to quickly avoid. I'll bet your family thinks your crackers and stays away.

My son wasn't tortured.

Time to get on the plan to leave fantasy island

Dear Sharon,

Reading can be challenging, especially if not on a computer or in book format and instead using a handheld device. So, I totally understand why you may have difficulty with information overload if on a site that provides a lot of information, particularly in writing rather than a video. You can take your time reading through any literature. Sometimes learning requires patience and diligence. So, I appreciate you may not have the time.

Your son is welcome to contribute a guest sermon about his experience. Please forward the invitation to him. It may help with his healing process.

It sounds like you prioritize yourself over others, even your own children. That may explain why there was some conflict when he was still a minor. Some people are just not equipped to parent.

Best Wishes,

Rev. Angela Smith

Subject: Teen Challenge

Dear Teen Challenge Survivors, Families, and Whistleblowers,

I know I've sent out a few Round Table Invitationals to you so far to participate in a round table discussion where Teen Challenge representatives were invited to participate as well to be printed to .pdf and act as one of the Sunday Sermons for COPE. See <https://www.cope.church/sermons.htm> for more info. Teen Challenge is on the HEAL Mission's "false prophets" watch-list and enrolled in the COPE Conversion Program intended to convert those enrolled to minimum honesty in marketing standards.

That being said, you are all Sponsors of the Teen Challenge programs enrolled in the COPE Conversion Program and placed on the HEAL Mission watch-list. See <https://www.heal-online.org> and <https://www.heal-online.org/thelist.htm> for more info. Teen Challenge has three ways off the watch-list. Those are death/closure, merciful release, and graduation. Merciful releases are based on Sponsor participation, date of last complaint on the facility/location, and whether or not the date of the last complaint is older than the requirement at law or by standards of practice to retain medical records. That standard would be based on academic disciplinary records otherwise which would be less time than the medical record retention laws in each state. If Sponsors don't participate, then an executive decision is made based on the remaining criteria to be at least as merciful as the US government or justice system. But, Teen Challenge of Arizona and Arkansas did get merciful releases. You can view the final report at <https://www.cope.church/tcazarprogress.pdf> which explains the number of complaints, nature of the complaints, as well as why those two were mercifully released.

I understand the round table discussion may have been too artful and enough have been done to make the point about how no one would likely voluntarily participate in a 24-hour confrontation with people with whom they disagree no matter the medium or venue. For those who've RSVP'd either way, I've been offering an alternative which is now going to be the standard going forward. A survivor of Benchmark (not a Teen Challenge program) has provided an individual guest sermon on his program which will be shared publicly in Wednesday night (10/14/20).

That will be the first official guest sermon and I'm excited about it.

That being said, all of the Sponsors of Teen Challenge locations placed on the watch-list are receiving this message. You may submit a guest sermon at any time. All guest sermons will identify the sermonizers by first and last name but not provide contact details other than to submit inquiries to me unless you wish to share your contact info and then if you wish to it will be included. If no guest sermon is received and/or there is no participation of Sponsors of the placement of the Teen Challenge location that harmed you, and, the other criteria for merciful release are met, that location will receive a merciful release. Please provide any guest sermon you write in the body of a single e-mail message and be sure to answer the following questions:

1. Did you report fraud or other unlawful actions to the proper authorities? If not, why? If so, what happened with the reports? (So, 2 part question)
2. Why do you believe Teen Challenge (specify which location by city/state) should be denied merciful release from the COPE Conversion Program?

I apologize for the length, but, it will likely be the last one I send out for a while to the Teen Challenge survivor/victim/whistleblower e-mail list unless there is a third-party request seeking to interview for media or seeking testimony for any lawsuits.

Thank You In Advance,

Rev. Angela Smith
